The Voice of the Universities

The Higher Education Compass

The Higher Education Compass www.higher-education-compass.de is Germany's central portal for information about higher education institutions and degree programmes, and is maintained by the German Rectors' Conference (HRK), the association of public and government-recognised universities in Germany. Information about all higher education institutions, their degree programmes and doctoral training options and the contact information for university leadership and other contact points are continually updated by the higher education institutions themselves.

- search for a higher education institution
- degree programme search and help with choosing a programme
- doctoral training search and information on doctoral training procedures
- portraits of the higher education institutions - self-portrayals, photos, films, social media channels
- Study Interest Test \(SIT\) and Studienplatzbörse
- Research Map and International University Partnerships (HRK's own websites)

Informationportal with a wide reach

The Higher Education Compass currently has the widest reach of any higher education institution and study information portal in Germany:

- over 500,000 visits per month to the Higher Education Compass and the websites of its cooperation partners,
- by entering data into the Higher Education Compass, the institutions are simultaneously updating around 30 study information portals.

Admission criteria

A higher education institution is only included in the Higher Education Compass if it fulfils the following criteria as a minimum:

- it is a public or government-recognised higher education institution,
- it already provides degree programmes,
- the degree programmes offered are government-approved and/or accredited.

Study Interest Test (SIT) – help to choose a degree programme

The Study Interest Test (SIT) provides school students in particular with a simple introduction to the process of choosing a programme. Participants receive an individual test evaluation and a list with all degree programmes in Germany that match the test result. www.studium-interessentest.de

Official clearing system for study places in Germany - Studienplatzbörse

After the regular application and enrolment deadlines have passed, the official clearing system for study places provides information about degree programmes in which study places are still available for the coming semester. www.hochschulkompass.de/studienplatzboerse
